TERMINOLOGY

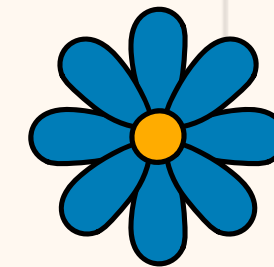

BLOCKCHAIN TECHNOLOGY

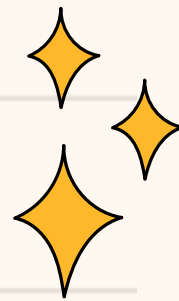

Blockchain technology is a distributed ledger system that uses several computers connected to a network to securely record transactions. Every transaction is combined into a "block" and connected chronologically.

CRYPTOCURRENCY

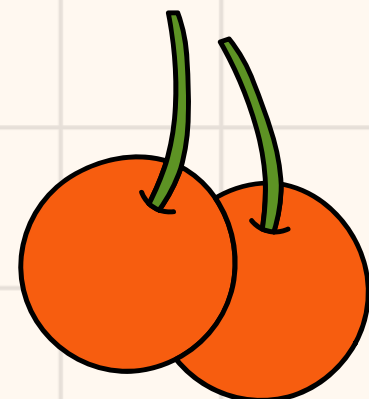

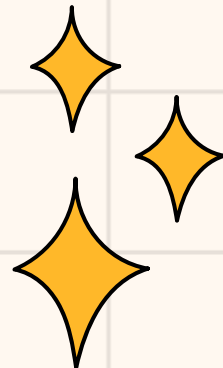

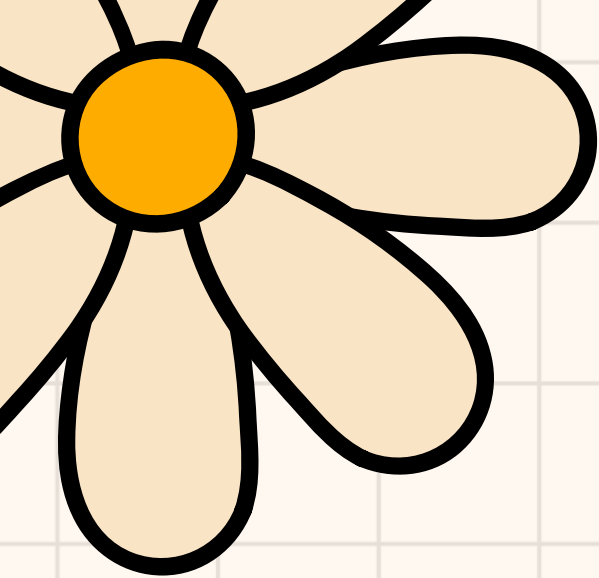

Cryptocurrency is a digital currency that leverages cryptography for the security of transactions. On decentralized networks powered by blockchain technology, cryptocurrencies function differently from traditional currencies that are issued by governments.

CRYPTO TOKENS

Crypto tokens are digital assets issued on a blockchain network that represent a particular asset. Unlike cryptocurrencies like Bitcoin or Ethereum, which operate as digital currencies, tokens are created and distributed through ICOs or token sales on existing blockchain platforms, such as Ethereum's ERC-20 standard or Binance Smart Chain's BEP-20 standard.
